Our philosophy is to maintain credibility by executing our responsibilities in accordance with the highest legal and ethical standards.

FGM conducts its business with integrity, and respect for those with whom we have relationships—our customers, our shareholders, our partners, and the people in the communities where we work and live.

We are focused on the long-term needs of our clients rather than the short-term gains of the company, and we deliver innovative, quality products and services. The beliefs, attitudes, and values that drive FGM’s business are consistent with our client’s expectations.

We encourage innovative thought and we value creativity. From the art of the possible to practical application of new and emerging technologies, we provide our clients with useful, effective solutions that meet their needs and exceed their expectations.

We deliver superior solutions that transform defense and intelligence, assure homeland security, enhance decision-making, and help government to work smarter and faster, and to stay on schedule and within budget, resulting in successful program conclusion.

Over the years, our customers have repeatedly told us that our most noticeable distinction is the talent, competence, and dedication of our people. Through their leadership and dedication we deliver real value to our customers.
